"BLIND PIGS" ON KAUAI TO BE SMOKED OUT IN KEKAKA TRIALS

Passengers who came over from Kauai on the steamer Kinau yesterday think there is something doing under the surface in the Kekaka murder case, wireless news of which was published last week. This is the case in which fourteen Japanese were indicted for killing a Japanese police officer who was probing "blind pig" cases at Kekaka.

Judge Davis returned on the Kinau, as well as Chester Doyle. Davis has been retained in five of the cases, it is said, while Attorney W. J. Sheldon

SANITARY COMMISSION READY TO PROBE MILK SUPPLY QUESTIONS

Honolulu's milk supply is due for investigation now by the sanitary commission. The commission took up the subject of dairies several times in the past few months and two or three inspection tours were largely confined to a survey of the dairies.

Now the commission has received some literature on the subject for which it sent to the mainland and is ready to get down to work on recommendations for possible legislation, as well as a strengthening and wider application of city or territorial inspection and regulation.

Secretary C. R. Hemenway has received from the state of Wisconsin a copy of the state dairy and food laws. These recommended to the commission as probably the most complete and the best on the subject. The commission will take up an analysis of these shortly and some Wisconsin legislation may be found adapted for local purposes.

The Wisconsin laws cover the whole subject of pure food legislation. They are particularly strong in definition, which is important when it comes to fighting for their enforcement by legal means. The laws cover some of the things that have been troubling the city and county supervisors as well as the board of health, particularly the screening regulations over which there has been so much trouble here.

CINCINNATI TO GO TO CHINA

The cruiser Cincinnati has received orders from Washington to proceed directly from Honolulu to Yokohama. She will sail at noon tomorrow, having taken on a full supply of coal at this port.

This is in line with opinions of naval officers here given before the cruiser's arrival that she would be dispatched with as little delay as possible to Shanghai via Yokohama, and that she would not touch at Manila on the way out.

Nothing has been heard from the Pacific fleet since Friday night. The Clash At Cederlof Trial To Confer On Low Lands

The switching of the details in the Cederlof murder trial on to one side to decide a point of United States jurisdiction was one of the features during the hearing before Judge Clemens this morning in the case in which Sergeant John A. McMahon is being tried for his life. One argument on this point alone took up nearly an hour of the court's time and resulted in a clash between the prosecution and defense following the statement made by Lorin Andrews, attorney for McMahon, that the court should try the case in hand and not the Motolara case, which was brought up merely for the purpose of settling some points that the prosecution wanted a ruling on.

United States Attorney Robert W. Brokens denied this fact and stated that such a statement was an imputation against Judge Clemens and the counsel for the government.

The most sensational piece of evidence with the trial under consideration was the fact that McMahon, when he was dressing a scratch for him on the night of the shooting, stated that it was the case of another good man gone wrong. As soon as this statement was made by the witness the prosecution announced in a dramatic manner that it was through with him. Took No Chances.

MORE BELT ROAD BIDS CALLED SOON

Within a few days tenders will be called for construction of the second section of the Oahu belt road. A meeting of the loan fund commission will probably be held shortly and arrangements made for calling for bids on the second job, although the first is tied up in the courts and from present prospects may be kept there a good while.

The second section is from the top of Waikeke hill to Kipapa gulch, and is something like ten miles in extent. The work, however, is expected to be much less expensive than on the Heala section, which is roughly 114,000 a mile.

The commission will also meet shortly to look over the plans prepared by its architects for the Kaimuki and Pohukaina schools. The plans are practically complete and bids will soon be called for. The appropriation for the Kaimuki school is $60,000 and for the Pohukaina school $30,000.

It is not at all unlikely that before the first belt-road section is out of the courts work will be started on the next. The court controversy has gone over until December, and as the legal preliminaries are in full swing it may take some weeks longer to clear them away.

Fast clocks and fast young men are due for setbacks.

MULTIGRAPH

H. E. HENDRICK
Acting Agent
Corner Merchant and Alakea Streets

A conference to decide some of the most important sanitation questions that face Honolulu at the present time has been called for next Wednesday afternoon in the Governor's office. Representatives of the board of health, the citizens' sanitation committee, the sanitary commission, the owners of the land interests where the clean-up is to be made and several prominent business men of the own are to be there. It is probable that representatives of the army and navy will also be present.

It is understood that the Kewalo lands and also the plan favored by General Macomb for the filling-in of the shallow stretch of water between the reef and Ala Moana and the putting of a fine driveway through from one end to the other, are to come up.

The matter of the general sanitation questions involved in this work and the whole question of what is to be done with the low lying stretch of land that runs along the coast towards Waikiki and makes it an impossible matter to sink any cesspools, owing to the tide wash being found a few feet under the surface of the ground, is to be taken up and settled.

Dr. Blue is to be in attendance and will give his advice as to what should be done for the best. The land throughout that district is owned in many instances by large interests and these are to be represented at the conference.

This matter has now been hanging fire for some time. From what can be gathered in official circles at the present time, however, it is thought that this is the first step in a comprehensive sanitation program for the whole city.

MAY GET OHIA FOR PAVEMENT

The story is out around the city that Sam Johnson's presence here in Honolulu means that he is to appear for the Paha Lumber Mill Company of Hawaii in bidding on the paving of King street, bids for which are to be opened by the Supervisors tomorrow morning. It is understood that the mill company will bid for paving of ohia block construction. Joseph Gilman, who controls the bitulithic paving process in the islands, is expected to be a bidder also. Johnson declines to discuss the matter but it is said that he has good backing in his efforts to secure the recognition of "home industry" in the block paving of Honolulu.
